

AKMR VOLUNTEER CENTER

It's more than a building.
It's part of the vision to reach Alaska for Christ.

A RIVER OF SERVANTS IN ALASKA

Changing the spiritual landscape of Alaska through servant evangelism.

Vision: Reach Alaska for Christ

At Alaska Missions, our approach is simple but effective: meet needs, break down walls, and share the gospel. Our most effective resource in this effort is the mobilization of volunteer mission teams. What began years ago as a trickling stream of teams has become a rushing river of servants coming to Alaska each year on mission, and it's changing the spiritual landscape of Alaska for Christ!

Need: Missional Infrastructure

Alaska Missions' capacity to facilitate service projects and meet the needs of Alaskans is directly affected by our capacity to host mission teams. Currently, teams are housed in multiple locations with limited capacity, as we have outgrown the existing infrastructure available on the Peninsula. However, God is making a way forward! The Volunteer Center will house up to 50 volunteers, allowing more teams to serve annually. The Volunteer Center is a key piece of missional infrastructure needed to mobilize teams, reach the community, and connect Alaskans to local churches.

Goal: Mobilize, Impact, Connect

The more volunteers who serve, the faster God's river of servant evangelism can rush through Alaska to impact eternal change. Alaska Missions is a proven mobilizer, utilizing as many as 200+ volunteers in one week through event evangelism efforts like Salmon Frenzy. Located in the heart of the Kenai Peninsula, our Volunteer Center will house mission teams throughout the year who come to engage in missions and ministries on the Peninsula. This Volunteer Center will also enable us to host pastor conferences, trainings, and discipleship events. We long to make disciples in Alaska, and connect those disciples in life and community with the Church.

PARTNERING IN MINISTRY

Your gifts, service, and prayers are key to seeing the AKMR Volunteer Center become a reality.

Financial Support

Donations toward the Volunteer Center go toward construction and operational costs. We estimate materials costs at $300,000 to complete the 4,500-sf, single-story building.

Skilled Labor Teams

Construction teams are a major facet of completing the Volunteer Center. While some aspects of construction require contracted local labor and equipment, Alaska Missions needs skilled labor teams who can supplement the construction effort.

Committed, Consistent Prayer

Alaska Missions believes in the power of prayer. Unite with us to pray not only for the completion of the Volunteer Center, but for its future impact as a central tool for mobilizing thousands of servant evangelists for years to come.

“If you’ve never seen God’s love in action, let me introduce you to Alaska Missions and Retreats.”
